Dimelza Broche is a Cuban-American artist residing in Jacksonville, Florida. She holds a bachelor's degree from the University of North Florida and a Master's degree from the University of Georgia. Broche has exhibited her work at Manifest Gallery, Marcia Wood Gallery, Era Contemporary Gallery, The Cummer Museum of Arts & Gardens, and at the S. Dillon Ripley Center, Washington, DC. And most recently one of her paintings was part of the UNF Alumni exhibition at MOCA museum in Jacksonville, FL. "With my work I want to take on the challenge of depicting the world as I see and experience it on a daily basis. I want the viewer to feel they are part of the scene, to place them in my shoes, or in this case, my wheels. My goal is to make the viewer feel the joy, frustration, pain, and desires the same way I experience those feelings as a wheelchair user." - Dimelza Broche.
